ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION.

Know all men by these presents that we,
Richard Darling, W. F. Timmons and Wash M.
Gay, citizens of the Territory of Arizona, and residents of the Territory of Arizona, for the purpose of forming a corporation under the laws of the Territory of Arizona, do hereby adopt the following articles of incorporation:

ARTICLE I.

The names of the incorporators are as follows: Richard Darling, W. F. Timmons and Wash M. Gay, all residents of the county of Yuma, Territory of Arizona.

ARTICLE II.

The name of this corporation shall be "The Valencuela Copper Company."

ARTICLE III.

The principal place of business of this corporation shall be in Denver City, Colorado, with a branch office at Quartzsite, Yuma county, Arizona, and such other places in the United States, as the Board of Directors may select.

ARTICLE IV.

The purposes for which this corporation is organized shall be: To acquire, by purchase, or otherwise, place, lode and deposit mining property and properties and to operate, lease and sell the same. To acquire, buy, lease, let and sell lands and realty of every description.
To construct, buy, rent, lease, let and sell buildings and temporary structures for any and every purpose. To construct, lease, own and operate, tramways, railways, or roads, highways, roads and canals, steam and freight boats for other passengers or freight from its principal place or places of business, to navigable streams and existing railroads and also to maintain, let and sell the same. To acquire, own, operate, construct, lease and maintain factories, mills, smelters and reduction works for the proper treatment of various minerals produced by the company or by others, and to let, lease, sell and dispose of the same. To acquire, buy, lease and construct telephone and telegraph lines and to maintain, operate, lease and sell the same.
To acquire, by purchase or otherwise, hotels, boarding houses, stables and shops and to maintain, operate, let, lease, sell and dispose of the same. To buy and sell ores and minerals of every nature and description and to do any and all things which may at the time appear to the directors of the company to be to the best interest of the company, and not inconsistent with the laws of the Territory of Arizona.

ARTICLE V.

The capital stock of said company shall consist of one million two hundred and fifty thousand shares of the par value of one dollar each and said stock upon issuance to be paid in full in cash or its equivalent in property conveyed to said corporation on or by service rendered said corporation, and when issued shall be forever non-assessable.

ARTICLE VI.

Private property of the stockholders of this corporation shall be exempt from any and all debts and liabilities of the corporation, and the highest amount of indebtedness to which this corporation is to be subject shall not exceed one hundred thousand dollars.

ARTICLE VII.

The time of the commencement of this corporation shall be on the date when these articles of incorporation are filed in the office of the county recorder of the said county of Yuma, Territory of Arizona, and shall continue for a period of twenty-five years from said date.

ARTICLE VIII.

The affairs of this corporation shall be conducted by a board of directors consisting of five persons who shall be stockholders of this corporation.

ARTICLE IX.

The board of directors shall consist of F. W.
Deidesheimer, L. F. Bradshaw, George C.
Manly, C. W. Grass and Richard Darling, who shall hold office until their successors are elected and qualified, at an annual election to be held by the stockholders of this corporation one year from the date of the filing of these articles of incorporation in the recorder's office of the county of Yuma, Territory of Arizona.

ARTICLE X.

The articles of incorporation may be altered or amended by a majority vote of the members of the board of directors at any regular meeting of said board or at any special meeting called for that purpose and these articles when so altered or amended shall be filed with the county recorder of the county of Yuma, Territory of Arizona.

ARTICLE XI.

Any vacancy that may occur in any of the offices of the corporation shall be filled by the board of directors by a majority vote thereof at any meeting of said board and any vacancy occurring in the board of directors shall be filled in like manner by a majority vote of the remaining members and when so elected they shall hold office until the next annual meeting of the stockholders of the said corporation.

ARTICLE XII.

The board of directors shall at their first meeting and from time to time thereafter, establish and adopt such by-laws, rules and regulations as they may deem expedient, not inconsistent with the laws of the United States and of the territory of Arizona.

ARTICLE XIII.

The price for which the capital stock of this corporation shall be sold shall be regulated by the board of directors at any meeting thereof.
In witness whereof the above named incorporators have hereunto set their hands and seals the 5th day of November, A. D. 1901.RICHARD DARLING, (Seal)

A Quintette.

A five-year-old boy went with his mother to make a call. The lady of the house, who was fond of children, told him she meant to ask his mother to let her have him. "Don't you think your mother would let me buy you?" she asked."No, ma'am," answered the little fellow; "you haven't got money enough.""How much would it take?" she continued."Three hundred dollars," said the boy, promptly, as if that would settle the matter at once for all."Oh, well, then," said the woman, "I think I can manage it. If I can will you come and stay with me?""No, ma'am," he said with decision. "Mamma wouldn't sell

Slave Transportation.

In the larger ships the space between the top of the cargo and the under side of the deck was sometimes as much as five feet.
To devote all that space to air was, in the mind of the thrifty slaver, sheer waste. So he built a shelf or gallery six feet wide all the way around the ship's hold, between the deck and the slave floor that was laid on top of the cargo. On this shelf was placed another layer of slaves, thus increasing the number carried by nearly 50 per cent.The crowding in the big ships, having two decks regularly, was still worse, for a slave deck was built clear across between these two, and the galleries or shelves were built both under and above deck. There were ships where four layers of slaves were placed thus between permanent decks that were only eight feet apart, and there are records of cases where smaller ships—ships having but three feet or so of space between cargo and deck—were fitted with galleries so that the slaves stretched on their backs had but a foot or less of air space between their faces and the deck or the next layer above them.To increase the number carried, when stretched out on deck or shelf, the slaves were sometimes placed on their sides, breast to back—"spoon fashion,"—as the slavers called it—and this made room for considerable extra.However, in the eighteenth century the usual practice was to place them on their backs, and to allow about two and a half feet of air space above the faces of the slaves, and in this way cargoes of over three hundred were carried.—John R.
Spears in Scribner's Magazine.

A Good Cough Medicine.

(From the Gazette, Toowoomba, Australia.)

I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine.
I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and it has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it.—W. C. Wockner.
This is the opinion of one of our oldest and most respected citizens and has been voluntarily given in good faith that others may try the remedy and be benefited as was Mr. Wockner. This remedy is sold at Cotter's drug store.

Hamlet Was Welcome, Too.

"Come down and have dinner with me this evening," was the invitation of a Coloradoan to his friend from Harlem, who called on him at the Imperial yesterday.
"Can't do it, old fellow," was the reply. "Sorry, but I have an engagement to see Hamlet tonight.""That's all right," was the response. Fetch him along; there is always room for three at my table if the third one is a friend of yours."—New York Tribune.

Not There to Be Flattered.

George R. Peck is here, which is not a fact of great importance, because he comes to Washington frequently, but is useful as a peg to hang a story on. Last winter the Hon. Henry Watterson of Kentucky sat in a retired corner in Chamberlain's drinking high balls, so they say, when Senator Thurston walked over to his table."What is the matter, Watterson?" he inquired. "You look down in the mouth.""I was thinking," said the great editor, "of the decay of oratory in this country. Years ago we had many notable orators—Clay, Calhoun, Webster and others—but today you can count them on the fingers of one hand. Why, Thurston, I know of but three men in all the United States who are entitled to be called orators.""Who are they?" inquired Thurston."Yourself, myself and George R. Peck."The senator from Nebraska smiled contemptuously and remarked:"What in thunder is the use of dragging George R. Peck in?
He is not here.—Washington Correspondence Chicago Record.
